This the time you will again be traditionally entertained by Rwanda villagers. The "Intore" were known for their remarkable technique allowing them to jump over 2m40. The warriors dance is a jewel of the choreographic heritage of Rwanda. Dressed with a man made of sisal fiber, tied up on ankles, little bells jingle on each step, giving the warriors dance a thrilling rhythm. Through the Intore ballet, physical confrontation turns into artistic rivalry and then at "the end" comes out into vigorous hug of the warriors. This is the most artistic gesture of friendship mutual aid and protection.

Again, through this cultural experience, you will be taken through the traditional and authentic wedding and practices and catch the long-time lifestyle of the Rwandan people.
